Deep gloom pervaded official circles in the big Japanese liner Tenyo Maru today. The vessel brought 40 sacks when it steamed last night for Japan, China and the Philippines after remaining for some hours at the Paradise of the Pacific.

The inspiring struis from the Keyal Hawaiian band falel to bring the smile of joyousness to a sablened staff. The addition of a score of passengers from Honolulu breaght no better result. The famous baseball team of the

Tenvo Maru is no more. Several causes led to the disbandment of the famous team which won glory for itself on both sides of the Pacific. Principal American-Hawaiian freighter Mexican, among these is the fact that Capt. Ernest Bent, who acted as eatcher and skipper of the team, has taken a two months' leave of absence. Contributory reasons for the team's dishandment also exist in the fact that, according to Dr. N. P. Crooks, who acted as pitcher, he has a neurotic arm. T. Clarke McCombe, the purser, who played second base, is ufflicted with · Charley horse' of long standing. C. Kobayashi, chief clerk of the Tenyo, who played shortstop and who was the team's pinch hitter, slippe I on the deck during the last voyage and sprained a tendon. G. A. Oulton, freight clerk, who was the official umpire, stopped a ball with his eye during practice and in consequence cannot see the positions. George Wiley, chief steward, who has always acted as official scorekeeper, is reported with a severe case of the gout and unable to attend to his duties with the team. To cap all the team's troubles, M. Yin, chief officer of the Boston Building Tenyo, and the other two members of the team complain that they cannot play the game alone.
